GLOBAL TECHNOLOGY SUMMIT, JUNE 17-20, 2013

DON'T MISS REUTERS EXCLUSIVE NEWS AND INSIGHT

Global technology is going through an era of unprecedented change, at an unprecedented scale and velocity. The advent of the cloud is transforming the way corporations conduct business; an explosion of mobile devices is re-shaping the way people the world over interact with media, communicate and work; and evolutionary devices and concepts from wearable computers to social media and crowdsourcing websites seem pregnant with the promise of revolutionizing society and business.

Against this backdrop, Facebook completed in 2012 what was then the third largest initial public offering ever to emerge from the United States, and Wall Street is betting on Twitter, Box and other Silicon Valley startups that have arrested investors' attention in past years to soon follow suit. Meanwhile, China's ascendancy as an economic superpower is driving a re-balancing in Asia and beyond that will have profound implications for the spread, use and ultimately development of technology.

The Reuters Global Technology Summit in San Francisco and Singapore will bring together many of the industry's leading lights – from polished corporate chieftains to scrappy Silicon Valley entrepreneurs behind some of today's leading Internet trends – to share their vision on how they hope to change the world. Again.

The Summit will generate exclusive stories, investable insights and online videos on these and other topics immediately available only to Thomson Reuters clients during the Summit. Some key interviews will be broadcast on Reuters.com and Insider (etv.thomsonreuters.com) - the single source for financial multimedia content.

MORE THAN 30 EXECUTIVES TO SPEAK INCLUDING:

- Yahoo CEO Marissa Mayer
- Facebook Chief Operating Officer Sheryl Sandberg
- SpaceX Founder Tesla Motors and PayPal Co-Founder Elon Musk
- eBay CEO John Donahoe
- Yelp CEO Jeremy Stoppelman
- Box Co-founder and CEO Aaron Levie
- ARM President and CEO Designate Simon Segars
- Nvidia CEO Jen-Hsun Huang

HIGHLIGHTS FROM PREVIOUS SUMMITS INCLUDE:

- Reuters Media and Technology Summit 2012: Eugene Kaspersky, CEO of Moscow-based Kaspersky Lab, which uncovered Flame a month before, said researchers since found that part of the Flame program code was nearly identical to code found in a 2009 version of Stuxnet. Later in the day, the largest security firm, Symantec Corp, said it confirmed that some source code had been shared. Thomson Reuters clients heard it first at the Summit.
- Reuters Washington Summit 2012: Nancy Pelosi made a prescient prediction on how the U.S. Supreme Court would rule the following day in determining whether President Obama's healthcare overhaul was constitutional. Pelosi said she believed the court would uphold the law by a 6-3 vote, with conservative justice John Roberts joining conservative Anthony Kennedy and the court's four more liberal justices in the majority. The next day the ruling was 5-4 to uphold the law. Kennedy sided with the court's conservative wing, but the core of Pelosi's prediction was on the mark: Roberts sided with the court's liberal wing to preserve the policy.
- Reuters Russia Investment Summit 2012: Russia's richest man, Alisher Usmanov, worth an estimated $18 billion, provided details in a rare interview on his well-timed bets on technology and telecoms that have multiplied his wealth more than tenfold since 2009.
